WONDER CRAFTZ

EMPLOYEE HANDBOOK

A Professional Guide to Workplace Policies & Procedures

Effective Date: 9th Oct 2026

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. Mission

At Wonder Craftz, our mission is to harness creativity, innovation, and technology to craft exceptional solutions that empower businesses and individuals. We are committed to fostering a collaborative, inclusive, and growth-oriented environment where our team can thrive and deliver outstanding value to our clients.

We prioritize quality, integrity, continuous learning, and responsible use of technology. Every employee contributes to our mission through professional conduct, teamwork, accountability, and a commitment to delivering meaningful results.

2. Overview

Wonder Craftz is a dynamic and innovative startup dedicated to delivering cutting-edge solutions across various industries. We specialize in bespoke services designed around the needs of our clients and work collaboratively to develop products and services that are technologically advanced and aligned with client goals.

Our workplace emphasizes growth, learning, teamwork, and employee well-being. Employees are expected to contribute positively to the workplace, support their colleagues, protect company and client interests, and maintain professional standards in all work-related activities.

3. Voluntary At-Will Employment

Unless an employee has a written employment agreement with Wonder Craftz that provides differently, employment is considered at-will under the original company policy. This means the employee may leave employment with or without cause, and Wonder Craftz may terminate employment with or without cause, subject to any applicable written agreement and requirements.

Any representation contrary to this policy is not binding on Wonder Craftz unless it is made in writing and signed by the authorized company representative in accordance with company requirements.

4. Equal Employment Opportunity

Wonder Craftz is committed to providing equal employment opportunities to employees and applicants and to maintaining a workplace free from unlawful discrimination. Employment decisions are intended to be based on personal skill, merit, qualifications, performance, and business requirements.

The policy applies to recruitment, hiring, promotions, benefits, wage and salary administration, job assignments, working conditions, disciplinary actions, and termination.

Wonder Craftz does not tolerate unlawful discrimination based on protected characteristics. Employees who believe they have experienced or observed a violation should report the matter to the Executive Director or appropriate management representative. Retaliation against an individual who reports a concern in good faith or participates in an investigation is prohibited.

Where applicable, qualified employees with disabilities may request reasonable accommodation. Employees who believe they require an accommodation should discuss their needs with the Executive Director.

5. Code of Conduct

Wonder Craftz expects all employees to maintain professionalism, integrity, accountability, and respect. Employees are expected to understand and follow company policies and to conduct themselves in a manner that protects the company, its clients, colleagues, and reputation.

- Ethical Behavior – Act with honesty, transparency, and fairness in all dealings and avoid conflicts of interest.
- Confidentiality – Protect company data, intellectual property, client information, and other confidential material.
- Professionalism – Maintain respectful, inclusive, and appropriate behavior and contribute to a workplace free from harassment and discrimination.
- Compliance – Follow company policies, security requirements, workplace procedures, and applicable requirements.
- Performance and Accountability – Fulfill assigned responsibilities diligently, meet agreed deadlines, communicate concerns, and take responsibility for work.
- Technology Use – Use company systems, devices, software, and internet access responsibly and securely.
- Conflict of Interest – Outside employment or personal projects must not interfere with company duties or create a conflict with Wonder Craftz.

Violations of company policies may result in appropriate disciplinary action, depending on the nature and circumstances of the matter, up to and including termination of employment.

6. Company Culture

Wonder Craftz aims to maintain a dynamic, inclusive, and forward-thinking environment where innovation, teamwork, and accountability support business success.

- Innovation and Excellence – We encourage creative thinking, quality work, and effective use of technology.
- Collaboration and Teamwork – Open communication, mutual respect, and cooperation are expected.
- Integrity and Accountability – Employees are expected to act honestly and take responsibility for their decisions and work.
- Growth and Learning – Employees are encouraged to develop their skills and learn continuously.
- Work-Life Balance – The company values employee well-being and a supportive work environment.
- Customer-Centric Approach – Client satisfaction and delivery of quality work are important to our success.

7. Dress Code

Wonder Craftz maintains a professional yet comfortable work environment. Employees should dress appropriately for their role, work setting, and responsibilities.

- Business Casual – Employees should dress neatly and professionally. Smart casual attire is appropriate unless otherwise specified.
- Client Meetings and Events – Formal or business attire may be required when representing the company at meetings, conferences, or client interactions.

- Tech and Creative Teams – A relaxed dress code may be allowed for non-client-facing roles, provided clothing remains clean and appropriate.
- Company-Branded Attire – Company-branded clothing may be used for events or team activities when provided.
- Prohibited Attire – Clothing with offensive graphics, overly revealing clothing, or attire inconsistent with a professional workplace is not permitted.

8. Policy Against Workplace Harassment

Wonder Craftz is committed to providing a work environment free from sexual harassment and other discriminatory harassment. Employees are expected to behave professionally and treat colleagues and other work-related individuals with respect.

This policy applies to work-related settings and activities inside or outside the workplace, including business trips and business-related social events. Company property and communication systems, including email and internet access, must not be used for conduct that violates this policy.

Prohibition of Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other physical or verbal conduct of a sexual nature where submission is connected to employment conditions or decisions, or where the conduct unreasonably interferes with work performance or creates a hostile work environment.

- Unwelcome sexual advances, with or without physical contact.
- Requests for sexual favors connected to employment benefits or decisions.
- Sexually explicit jokes, comments about a person's body, suggestive materials, gestures, or unwanted physical contact.
- Coerced sexual acts or other unwelcome sexual conduct.

Prohibition of Other Discriminatory Harassment

Wonder Craftz prohibits verbal or physical conduct that shows hostility or aversion toward an individual based on protected characteristics when it creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment, interferes with work performance, or negatively affects employment opportunities.

Examples may include epithets, slurs, negative stereotypes, jokes, threatening behavior, or hostile written or graphic materials targeting individuals or groups based on protected characteristics.

Reporting of Harassment

Employees who experience or witness harassment should report it promptly to their supervisor or the Executive Director. Harassment by customers, vendors, contractors, or other work-related individuals should also be reported.

Wonder Craftz will review reports appropriately and, where an investigation is required, may conduct private discussions with the complainant, accused person, and relevant witnesses. Confirmed violations may result in counseling, warnings, suspension, termination, or other appropriate action. Retaliation against anyone who reports a concern in good faith or participates in an investigation is prohibited. If a complaint involves the Executive Director, it should be directed to the designated grievance officer.

9. Solicitation

Employees are expected to keep workplace activities focused on company work. Solicitation, including solicitation through electronic mail or company communication systems, may be restricted when it interferes with work, business operations, or company resources.

Company property and communication systems should not be used for unauthorized collections, subscriptions, memberships, fundraising, or other personal solicitation. Employees should seek management guidance where there is uncertainty about whether an activity is permitted.

10. Hours of Work, Attendance and Punctuality

Hours of Work

Employees are expected to follow the office timings assigned to their role and to remain available during scheduled working hours. Working arrangements may vary according to business requirements and the employee's role.

Attendance and Punctuality

Regular attendance and punctuality are important to team coordination, client service, and timely completion of work. Employees should make every reasonable effort to arrive on time and communicate with their reporting manager when circumstances may affect their attendance.

Initial lateness may result in a reminder or warning so the matter can be addressed. If late coming becomes frequent, the attendance record may be reviewed and the applicable company policy may be followed.

Employees are allowed a maximum of 3 late arrivals per month, with valid reason and approval from management. After 3 late arrivals in a month, any further late arrival will be counted as a half-day leave. Repeated or frequent late coming without proper reason may result in disciplinary action.

Breaks

- Namaz and Lunch Break: 2:00 PM to 2:45 PM.
- Evening Tea Break: 15 minutes during the evening, as scheduled by the company.
- Employees are requested to return to their workstations on time after designated breaks.
- Break timings may be adjusted when required due to business or operational needs.

11. Employment Policies and Practices

Definition of Terms

Employment terms, job responsibilities, working arrangements, salary, benefits, and other conditions may be described in the employee's employment letter, position description, company policies, and applicable procedures. Where a written employment document provides specific terms for an employee, those terms should be reviewed together with this handbook.

Employees are expected to understand the policies applicable to their role and to communicate with HR or their reporting manager when clarification is required.

12. Position Description and Salary Administration

Each employee's position is based on the responsibilities and expectations communicated through the employee's position description and employment documentation. Employees are expected to perform assigned duties professionally and to cooperate with reasonable changes in responsibilities based on business needs.

Salary administration is handled according to the employee's employment terms, role, performance, company requirements, and applicable company policies. Employees should direct questions regarding salary or position responsibilities to HR or management.

13. Work Review

Wonder Craftz may review employee performance to assess work quality, efficiency, responsibility, teamwork, communication, attendance, and progress against role expectations.

Performance discussions are intended to provide feedback, identify strengths and areas for improvement, clarify expectations, and support professional development. Employees are expected to participate constructively and act on reasonable feedback.

Performance concerns may be addressed through discussion, guidance, additional support, warnings, or other appropriate action depending on the circumstances.

14. Economic Benefits and Insurance

Health Insurance

Where health insurance is provided, eligibility and coverage will be governed by the company's applicable insurance arrangement and terms.

Monthly Bonuses

Where monthly bonuses are offered, eligibility and payment will depend on the applicable company policy, performance requirements, and management approval.

Allowances

Any applicable allowances will be provided according to the employee's approved employment terms or company policy.

Provident Fund

Employee contribution to the Provident Fund is 5% of salary, subject to company policy. For the first one year, the employer contribution is 50% of the employee's 5% contribution, equivalent to 2.5% of salary.

Provident Fund amounts are maintained according to company records and applicable terms. At separation, the applicable amount is processed as part of clearance. If an employee leaves before completing one year, the employee's own 5% contribution is payable while the employer contribution does not apply. After one year, an employee who wishes to continue the deduction may request management approval; in that case, only the employee's 5% contribution continues unless otherwise approved.

Bi-Annual and Annual Increments

Salary increments may be considered based on the company's review process, employee performance, role, business conditions, and management approval. An increment is not automatic unless specifically provided in an applicable written agreement or company policy. Bi-Annual increment is applicable only in the first year of the employment.

15. Leave Benefits and Other Work Policies

Casual Leave

Employees may avail up to two leaves in a month, subject to approval and work requirements. Employees are entitled to 10 casual leaves according to the company's leave policy. The applicable 10 leaves may be considered for encashment according to company policy and approval. Available after successful completion of probation, must be approved in advance except in emergencies.

Sick Leave

Employees who are unable to attend work due to illness should inform their reporting manager as soon as reasonably possible and follow the applicable leave approval process. Employee can avail 8 sick leaves. Medical certificate may be required for sick leave exceeding 2 consecutive days. Available after successful completion of probation.

Maternity Leave

Maternity leave is provided according to the company's applicable leave policy and approved employment terms. Employees should coordinate with HR regarding the expected leave period and required documentation. Must be applied 4 to 6 weeks before expected delivery date with medical documentation. Employee can avail maternity leaves upto 60 days. Available after successful completion of probation

Paternity Leave

Paternity leave is provided according to the company's applicable leave policy and approved employment terms. Employees should notify HR or their reporting manager as early as reasonably possible. Granted to male employees after the birth of a child and minimum 5 months of continuous service. Employee can avail 5 Paternity leaves. Available after successful completion of probation

Hajj/Umrah Leave

Hajj or Umrah leave may be considered according to the company's applicable leave policy and management approval. Available after successful completion of probation. Special leave for religious pilgrimage. Minimum 6 months of continuous service. prior approval required and upto 15 days granted

Bereavement leave may be considered in the event of the death of an eligible family member, subject to the company's applicable policy and approval. Employee must inform management as soon as possible, 5 bereavement leaves granted.

Public Holidays

The company will observe applicable public holidays according to its announced holiday schedule and operational requirements.

Marriage Leaves

Marriage leave is provided for an employee’s own marriage, with an entitlement of 2 to 4 days for employees who have completed a minimum of 5 months of continuous service. The leave must be applied for 2 to 4 weeks in advance.

Note: All leaves during probation and notice period are unpaid and employee can avail 2 leaves in a month after probation.

16. Reimbursement of Expenses

Reasonable business expenses may be reimbursed where they are incurred for authorized company work and are supported by the required documentation. Employees should obtain approval where required before incurring an expense and ubmit receipts or other supporting records within the applicable company process.

Personal expenses are not reimbursable unless specifically approved as a business expense.

17. Resignation

Employees who wish to resign should provide written notice in accordance with their employment terms and company requirements. During the notice period, employees are expected to continue performing their responsibilities professionally and support an orderly handover of work.

The resignation and separation process may include return of company property, transfer of work and access, completion of clearance, and settlement of applicable dues.

In case of resignation, layoff, or conclusion of employment, final salary/settlement will normally be processed after one month, subject to completion of the clearance process and settlement of applicable company dues or assets.

18. Return of Property

Employees are entrusted with company property such as laptops, mobile devices, access cards, tools, documents, and other equipment. Employees must take reasonable care of these assets and report loss, theft, or damage promptly.

Property to be Returned

- Laptops, computers, and accessories such as chargers and mouse.
- Mobile devices and SIM cards, if provided by the company.
- Security access cards, ID badges, and keys.
- Confidential documents and company files, including physical and digital copies.
- Company-issued uniforms or protective gear, where applicable.
- Software licenses, login credentials, project files, and other work materials.
- Any other equipment or materials provided for work purposes.

Return Process

- Employees should return company property on or before their last working day.
- HR and IT may verify returned items against company records.
- Outstanding company property should be returned within 7 days of the last working day.
- Failure to return property may result in deductions, recovery action, or withholding of final settlement as permitted by company policy.

Company Asset Damage or Theft

If a company asset is damaged due to employee-related reasons, the employee will be responsible for 30% of the applicable repair or replacement cost, subject to assessment. In case of theft, the employee should provide the relevant FIR/police report or other required documentation. For a verified theft case, the company will bear 50% of the applicable loss/replacement cost and the employee will bear 50%, subject to assessment and documentation.

Data Security on Separation

Employees must not retain, copy, or share company files, emails, credentials, or intellectual property after separation. Company-related data stored on personal devices must be securely deleted as required by the company.

19. Review of Personal and Work Practices

Wonder Craftz expects employees to maintain professional standards in both personal conduct at work and day-to-day work practices.

- Personal Conduct and Ethics – Act with integrity and respect colleagues.
- Work Performance – Complete assigned tasks on time and take accountability for results.
- Attendance and Punctuality – Follow assigned schedules and communicate attendance concerns.
- Communication and Collaboration – Maintain open, respectful, and constructive communication.
- Workspace Organization – Keep the work area clean and professional.
- Confidentiality and Data Security – Protect company and client information.
- Policy Compliance – Follow applicable workplace, IT, security, dress, and conduct policies.
- Performance Evaluation – Participate in regular reviews of work quality, efficiency, and teamwork.

Workstation and Availability

Employees should remain available at their assigned workstation during working hours except for approved breaks, meetings, official work, or other necessary activities. If an employee needs to be away for an extended period, they should keep their reporting manager informed where appropriate. Repeated unavailability may be discussed and reviewed according to company guidelines.

20. Personnel Records

Personnel records are company property and access to the information they contain is restricted and confidential. A personnel file may include the employee's job application, employment letter, position description, performance reviews, disciplinary records, salary adjustment records, and other relevant personnel information.

Employees are responsible for promptly notifying their supervisor or HR in writing of changes to personal information such as address, telephone number, dependents, and emergency contact details.

Employees must complete time and attendance records within two days of the end of each pay period where such records are required. Accurately recording time worked is the responsibility of each employee. Tampering with, altering, falsifying, or recording time on behalf of another employee may result in disciplinary action, including termination.

21. Outside Employment

Employees may hold outside employment as long as it does not interfere with their responsibilities, performance, scheduling requirements, or obligations to Wonder Craftz.

Employees are evaluated according to the same performance standards regardless of outside work. If outside employment interferes with performance or the evolving requirements of the company, the employee may be required to discontinue the outside employment if they wish to remain employed with Wonder Craftz.

Outside employment that creates a conflict of interest is prohibited. Employees may not receive income or material benefits from individuals or organizations for work produced or services rendered while performing duties for Wonder Craftz.

22. Non-Disclosure of Confidential Information

Information an employee learns about Wonder Craftz, its clients, partners, or internal operations as a result of employment that is not publicly available is considered confidential. Employees must not disclose such information to external parties or to employees who do not require it for their responsibilities.

Confidential information may include:

- Compensation data.
- Financial and business strategy information.
- Client details and project-related data.
- Proprietary AI models, software, or technical solutions under development.
- Trade secrets, internal processes, and other non-public business information.

Employees are required to sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement (NDA) where required by the company. Unauthorized disclosure, distribution, electronic transmission, copying, or retention of confidential information may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Sensitive discussions should take place in secure settings. Employees should avoid discussing confidential matters in public places or through unsecured communication channels.

23. Computer and Information Security

Wonder Craftz's computer and communication systems, including computers, centralized equipment, software, telephones, email, and voicemail, are provided to support business operations. Limited personal use may be allowed when it does not interfere with work responsibilities, ethical standards, security, or applicable requirements.

Ownership and Privacy

- Company data, including emails, documents, and messages stored on company systems, belongs to Wonder Craftz.
- Company systems may be monitored, and employees should not expect privacy for data stored on company systems.

Acceptable Use and Security

- Do not use company systems for offensive, harassing, defamatory, or inappropriate content.
- Do not access systems, files, or information without authorization.
- Do not share passwords or credentials.
- Do not install personal software or download unverified programs on company devices.
- Do not modify company software or security settings without approval.
- Use company systems responsibly and protect confidential information.

Security Best Practices

- Log out or turn off a computer when leaving the workstation for an extended period.
- Secure confidential documents appropriately.
- Back up important local files according to company procedures.
- Report suspected security incidents or IT concerns to management immediately.

24. Internet Acceptable Use Policy

Internet access is provided based on business necessity and prior approval. Internet use must support company objectives and comply with ethical standards, company policies, and applicable requirements.

Monitoring and Privacy

Internet usage may be monitored, and employees should not expect privacy when using company internet or systems. Access to certain websites may be restricted based on business relevance or security needs.

Prohibited Activities

- Accessing, creating, or sharing offensive, defamatory, or inappropriate content.
- Downloading or sharing copyrighted material without permission.
- Downloading software without prior approval.
- Using personal opinions or communications in a way that discloses confidential company information.
- Participating in chain letters, pyramid schemes, or unauthorized solicitations.
- Using company internet for political endorsements or campaign promotions.
- Any other use that violates company policies, security requirements, or applicable requirements.

25. Employee Policies and Procedures

This section brings together the day-to-day workplace practices provided in the Employee Policies & Procedures document. These guidelines are intended to support a comfortable, organized, fair, and productive working environment.

Employee Loan Facility

- Employees may apply for a company loan after completing one year of employment.
- The available loan amount may be up to the employee's available Provident Fund amount, subject to management approval and applicable terms.
- Where multiple requests are received in the same month, requests may be reviewed according to priority, circumstances, available funds, and management approval.
- Advance notice of a potential loan need does not guarantee approval.
- An approved loan will normally be repaid in three installments according to the agreed schedule.
- After completing repayment, an employee may apply for another loan after a four-month waiting period.
- Where required, the employee will sign an NDA and/or loan agreement. Applicable documentation costs are borne by the employee.
- Documentation may include one witness from the company and one witness from the employee's side.
- Employees are expected to follow the agreed repayment schedule and should discuss repayment concerns with management.

General Workplace Guidelines

- Employees are encouraged to communicate openly with reporting managers or HR about questions or concerns.
- The company may review or update workplace guidelines based on operational requirements.
- Matters not specifically covered may be considered by management in line with company policy and applicable requirements.
- Employees should contribute to a respectful, organized, and productive workplace.

Employee Salary Tax Responsibility

Employees shall be responsible for paying their own applicable salary income tax. The Company will not bear or reimburse employees' personal or salary income tax liabilities. All employees are expected to fulfill their tax obligations in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

26. Employee Acknowledgement

I confirm that I have received and read the Wonder Craftz Employee Handbook. I understand that the handbook provides company policies and workplace procedures intended to support a professional, respectful, organized, and productive working environment.

I agree to follow the applicable company policies and procedures and understand that I should contact HR, my reporting manager, or management when I need clarification about a policy or workplace matter.

I understand that the company may review and update policies and procedures when required by operational needs. Where applicable, specific terms in my employment agreement or approved company policy will also apply.
